ASSESSING THE USE OF TECHNOLOGY

The rapid emergence of new technologies raises many controversial issues related to resource utilization, ethics, and strategic planning. This special section discusses both theory and practice in implementing a new paradigm for technology decision making.

PAIN MANAGEMENT

A Catholic Health Association task force report on pain management for persons at the end of life clarifies theological and ethical considerations while respecting clinical realities. This extensive examination of the issue includes guiding principles for the development of a pain management policy.

CATHOLIC MEDICAL EDUCATION

Based on a symposium held at Creighton University's medical school, five articles explore the future of Catholic medical education in terms of Catholic identity, the layperson's expectations, and the relation between medicine and the Church.
